Laura Hartman, Joseph DesJardins : Business Ethics: Decision-Making for Personal Integrity Social Responsibility, 3rd edition (Irwin Management) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Business Ethics: Decision-Making for Personal Integrity Social Responsibility, 3rd edition (Irwin Management):

The authors ramble, jump form topic to topic, and hide behind the veil of ethics to push their own agendas. It's not worth the paper it is printed on. The index is weak and limited, the subject headings are lacking, and I look forward to ceremoniously tossing this in the trash where it should have been all along. I personally run three successful businesses and we make personal and business ethics an integral part of our daily business. But taking ethics and trying to make it fit a personal agenda as this book does is a disgrace. Buy it if you must, read it if forced, and trash it as soon as you can. One star only because zero is not allowed. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five Stars By jessica villanuevagood 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Business Ethics: Decision-Making for Personal Integrity Social Responsibility, 3e is designed to prepare the student to apply an ethical decision-making model, not only in the ethics course but throughout her or his business discipline. This model teaches students ethical skills, vocabulary, and tools to apply in everyday business decisions and throughout their business courses. The authors speak in a sophisticated yet accessible manner while teaching the fundamentals of business ethics. Hartman's professional background in law and her teaching experience in the business curriculum, combined with DesJardins' background in philosophy and MacDonald's ability to distill complicated business transactions into understandable terms, results in a broad language, ideal for this approach and market. The authors' goal is to engage the student by focusing on cases and business scenarios that students already find interesting. Students are then asked to look at the issues from an ethical perspective. Additionally, its focus on AACSB requirements makes it a comprehensive business ethics text for business school courses. The goal for the third edition is to provide "a comprehensive yet accessible introduction to the ethical issues arising in business." Hartman and DesJardins have retained the focus on decision-making as well as the emphasis on both personal and policy-level perspectives on ethics. This edition continues to provide pedagogical support throughout the text. The most noticeable changes involve a thorough updating of distinct items such as Reality Checks, Decision Points, and readings to reflect new cases, examples and data.

About the Author Laura Pincus Hartman is Vincent de Paul Professor of Business Ethics at DePaul University's Driehaus College of Business and serves as Special Assistant to the University's President with a focus on Haiti. Hartman helped to establish and now chairs the Board of a trilingual elementary school in Haiti, the School of Choice / l'Ecole de Choix. Previously, Hartman was Director of External Partnerships for Zynga.Org, through which Zynga players have contributed more than $14 million toward the both domestic and international social causes. Hartman's work, integrated throughout these endeavors, demonstrates the potential for innovative and profitable partnerships to alleviate poverty while providing measurable value to all stakeholders involved. Joe DesJardins is Professor in the philosophy department formed jointly by the College of St. Benedict and St. John's University in Minnesota. He presently serves as the Executive Director of the Society for Business Ethics. Among his publications are: An Introduction to Business Ethics (McGraw Hill), Environmental Ethics: An Introduction to Environmental Philosophy (Wadsworth), of Contemporary Issues in Business Ethics, co-editor, with John McCall, (5th Ed, Wadsworth) , and the forthcoming Business, Ethics, and Sustainability: Ethics for the Next Industrial Revolution (Prentice Hall). He received his Ph.D. from the University of Notre Dame and taught for many years at Villanova University before moving to Minnesota.
